Presenter: Tim Watterson

Te Ahu a Turanga
Manawatū Tararua Highway

Tim Watterson

Major Projects Director - Infrastructure,
Aurecon and Alliance Project Director

Jamie Telford, Visualisations Leader,
Aurecon, will present some of the technology used.

Tim is a Major Projects Director at Aurecon with over 26 years' experience from the UK, Australia and New Zealand. Tim has held a number of leadership roles on Alliances, Design and Construct, ECI and other delivery models. He was Design Director for the NCTIR Alliance delivering the Kaikōura earthquake recovery and improvements works, a highlight of which was winning the ICE's 2018 global People's Choice Award. With Te Ahu a Turanga Alliance, Tim has been involved from the start of the tender phase of this Hybrid Alliance, through consenting, design, and now into construction.

The Te Ahu a Turanga: Manawatū Tararua Highway project is being delivered through an Alliance comprising Waka Kotahi, Aurecon, WSP, HEB and Fulton Hogan and iwi partners. The 11.5 km long highway is now under construction, replacing the closed State Highway 3 Manawatū Gorge route, reconnecting Hawke's Bay with Northern Wairarapa.

The New Zealand Planning Institute recently recognised this project with the 2021 Best Practice Award for consultation/participation strategies and in particular the importance of the iwi partnership and how this influenced positively on the planning and design outcomes. The use of advanced digital technologies, including virtual reality interfaces, were central to delivery of the planning and consents, design and engineering and the stakeholder and public engagement.

Te Ahu a Turanga Alliance Project Director (and Aurecon Major Projects Director), Tim Watterson, will share the story of this project and its approach to collaboration.
